Train Your Partner Program

Are you an experienced driver with a spouse, relative or friend that wants to learn how to drive a truck? Through our Train Your Partner Program, your partner can get their CDL training sponsored by CRST while you train them on the road in one of our trucks. We also have a special pay promotion for the Train Your Partner Program. Normal contract students coming out of school earn $.30 per mile when on the truck. With this promotion, the partner/student comes in as a 6-month level driver and earns $.40 per mile!

This is how it works:

- Your partner goes through our company paid school program to get his or her CDL.
- You go through our Lead Driver course after completing our standard orientation. The course is 1½ to 2 days, where you will learn our policies and procedures for training drivers.
- You go out and train your partner for 21-28 days while getting Lead Driver pay.
- You head out as a co-driver team, where you will be out for up to 2 weeks followed by 5 days home.

How to Become a Lead Driver

If you are an experienced driver with a desire to earn more money and to help new truck school graduates learn what it's like to be an OTR driver, you may qualify to be a lead driver (trainer). If you qualify, you would take a recent graduate on the road for 28 days of on-the-job training, and then you would take 4 days off at home. You would then repeat the cycle and would train approximately 9 to 10 students per year. This is a very rewarding position at CRST and you can earn substantially more income.

To qualify, you would need to have a minimum of 6 months of OTR experience. This must include four months of winter driving in the last twelve months, to include driving OTR between the months of November and March. You also need the approval of our Operations and Safety Departments. Once approved, you would attend a brief Lead Driver Class where we would teach you how to train a student with a new CDL.

Some "summer lead drivers" do not have winter driving experience – they just go back to being a Co-driver for the winter.
